"WEAR IT PINK" FOR BREAST CANCER RESEARCH

Party lovers are invited to a fabulous night out at a top Highland hotel next month to help raise a large sum for charity.

A Pink Dinner Party will be held at the Lovat Arms in Fort Augustus on Saturday, 27th October, 2007 in aid of Breast Cancer Research.

Guests are promised a memorable evening which will include Canapés, Champagne & Wine Tasting, a four Course Dinner devised and cooked by chefs from The Torridon Hotel, Lovat Arms and Fouter's restaurant. Each course will be accompanied by bottles from the Lovat's main wine supplier Inverarity Vaults and there will be unlimited beer and soft drinks. There will also be live entertainment as well as casino tables and fireworks.

Caroline Gregory, the Lovat's managing partner, said: "We can promise guests a fantastic night of food, wine and entertainment for a really worthwhile cause.

"Everybody knows someone who has been touched in some way by breast cancer whether it's friends or family. I know relatives who have had it and people who have been affected by it."

She added: "Fundraising for Breast Cancer Research is something everyone can really get involved in. We have had fantastic support for the evening from a number of local companies and we hope we can attract a good crowd along so we can raise as much money as possible."

Tickets are £100 per person excluding accommodation, £150 per person including accommodation. £30 from each ticket will be donated to the charity.

To book a ticket contact the Lovat Arms on 01456 459250 and for further information on the hotel check out www.lovatarms-hotel.com.
